Gender and Sexuality Studies at Haverford College. 2017-18

Please check the Website for the latest information: https://www.haverford.edu/gender-and-sexuality-studies

Haverford College supports a Concentration in Gender and Sexuality Studies, and Haverford students can also Minor or do an Independent Major through Bryn Mawr College.

To Concentrate, students need 6 courses in total. 1 must be ICPR 290, Interdisciplinary Perspectives in Gender. This will be taught in Fall of 2017 by Anne Balay at Bryn Mawr on MW from 1:10 to 2:30. At least 2 and no more than 3 of the remaining courses should be in the student’s major, and at least 2 and no more than 3 should fall outside the major. Students can choose courses from anywhere in the Tri-Co (Swarthmore courses are listed here: http://www.swarthmore.edu/gender-sexuality-studies/courses), or take courses at Penn if approved in advance by the coordinator.

For example, an Anthropology major would take ICPR 290, 2 or 3 cross-listed Anthropology courses, and 2 or 3 non-Anthropology courses cross-listed in departments like English or Sociology, for a total of 6.

Students in STEM fields are more likely to minor, because there typically aren’t 2-3 courses cross-listed in their majors. A Math or Economics major would thus take 290, and 5 more courses drawn from any department that are cross-listed with GenSex.

Cross-listed courses vary each year. In 2017-18, Fall semester options (taught at Haverford unless otherwise labeled) include:

ANTH 212, Feminist Ethnography, Juli Grigsby, MW 2:15
ANTH 214, Race, Crime and Sexuality, Juli Grigsby, MW 11:15
ANTH 354, Political Economy, Gender, Ethnicity, and transformation in Vietnam, Melissa Pashigan, M 2:10 (BMC)
COML 334, Gender Dissidence in Hispanic Writing, (time and Prof TBA)
CSTS 175, Feminism in Classics, Catherine Conybeare, TTh 2:25 (BMC)
ECON 324, The Economics of Discrimination and Inequality, Andrew Nutting TTh 12:55 (BMC)
ENGL 106, Romance to Bromance, Jamie Taylon, MW 12:00 (BMC)
ENGL 263, Toni Morrison and the Art of Narrative Conjure, Linda Susan-Beard, Tu 7:10p (BMC)
ENGL 320, Black Feminist Lit, Mecca Sullivan, TTh 2:25 (BMC)
HLTH 200/ANTH 200, Viruses, Humans, Vital Politics: An Anthropology of HIV & AIDS, Chris Roebuck, time TBA
HLTH 302, Bodies of Injustice: Health, Illness and Healing in Contexts of Inequality, Carol Schilling, Tu 7:30 p
ICPR 258, American Queen: Drag in Contemporary Art and Performance, Christina Knight, W 1:30-4.
POLS 242, Women in War and Peace, Susan Wing, TTh 10
Check the Haverford website above for Spring options. Courses that are often taught at Haverford include:

- AFST 319 - Black Queer Saints: Sex, Gender, Race, Class and the Quest for Liberation
- ANTH 228 - Reproductive Justice, Social Movements, and Civil Society
- ANTH 311 - Anthropology of Violence and the Body
- BIOL 127 - Perspectives in Biology: Human Genetic Diversity
- COML 231 - Caribe Queer: Sexualities and Narratives from the Hispanic Caribbean
- COML 320 - Sex-Crime-Madness: The Birth of Modern Literature and the Aesthetics of Transgression
- HIST 283 - Queer Geopolitics: 1945–Present
- HLTH 208 - Disability and Super-Ability on Screen: From Bioethics to Social Justice
- RELG 223 - Body, Sexuality and Christianity
- SOCL 235 - Class, Race, and Education
- SPAN 316 - Women and the Armed Struggle in Latin America

Finally, Concentrators (at Haverford) should select a senior project that intersects with the study of gender and sexuality. Working with an advisor in your major, in consultation with the Coordinator of Gender and Sexuality Studies, Concentrators incorporate research, theories, and perspectives from the discipline of Gender and Sexuality studies into their research, writing, and/or performance.

If you have questions, please email Anne Balay, who is the Coordinator of GenSex at Haverford. (Abalay@haverford.edu). Ideally, each concentrator will meet with Professor Balay during their first few years to plan a course of study. Haverford Students can declare their intent to concentrate electronically via: https://haverford.co1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_esPnDnjGIgGqRhZz

Haverford students who wish to minor must fill out a paper form and file it with the Registrar at Bryn Mawr College. Doing so is not required, but it has advantages. First, it provides the College with information about how many students are interested in taking cross-listed courses (and thus increases the chances that interesting courses will be offered), and it includes you on a list of students informed about internships, lectures, and other opportunities related to their interests.

3/21/2017